

BIBLIOGRAPHIE :

- Caws, Peter. Structuralism: The Art of the Intelligible. Atlantic Highland, N.J.: Humanities Press, 1988, xiv + 276 Pp.
- "It is without question the very first work I would recommend to anyone who wants to become knowledgeable about structuralism--and likewise to anyone who has been inclined to dismiss it."
Forrest Williams, University of Colorado.
- Cell, Howard R. and James MacAdam. Rousseau's Response to Hobbes. New York, Berne, Frankfurt, Paris: Peter Lang Publishing, 1988, xii, 271 Pp.
- Chappell, Vere and Willis Doney. Twenty-five years of Descartes Scholarship, 1960-1984: A Bibliography. New York: Garland Publishing, 1987, 496 Pp.
- Derrida, Jacques. Of Spirit. Chicago: The University of Chicago Press, forthcoming.
- Gerassi, John. Jean-Paul Sartre: Hated Conscience of His Century. Volume 1: Protestant or Protestor. University of Chicago Press, 1988, 248 Pp.
- Harari, Josué V. Scenarios of the imaginary: Theorizing the French Enlightenment. Cornell University, 1988, 240 Pp.
- Kronegger, Marlies. Ed. Phénoménologie et littérature. Colloque de Cerisy-la-Salle.
- Michael, Colette. Ed. Sade: His Ethic and Rhetoric. New York: Garland Publishing, 1989.
- Paulson, Michael G. The Possible Influence of Montaigne's Essais on Descartes' Treatise on the Passions. Univ. Press of America, 1988, 138 Pp.
- Reiss, Timothy J. The Uncertainty of Analysis: Problems in Truth, Meaning, and Culture. Cornell University Press, 1988, 312 Pp.
- Starobinski, Jean. Jean-Jacques Rousseau: Transparency and Obstruction. Transl. by A. Goldhammer. Introduction by R.J. Morrissey. Univ. of Chicago press, 1988, xxxviii + 422 Pp.